Warm trend thaws area

by John Orlet

That famous weather-predicting groundhog, Punxsatawney Phil, saw his shadow two weeks ago, indicating that we were in for at least six more weeks of winter.

But this week's warming trend seems to prove that predicting the weather is a tough business, even for groundhogs.

Eastern geologygeography instructor Richard Wise is no groundhog, but he said Tuesday that the unseasonably warm weather experienced this week throughout the midwest is being caused by masses of warm air coming in from the Pacific ocean, instead of Canada.

"The jet stream has moved north and is running along the Canadian border," Wise said. "It usually runs through the middle of the country."

He noted that these warmer masses of air have pushed the thermometer close to the 60-degree mark, about 20 degrees above normal for mid-February.

However, Wise added that the balmy temperatures accompanied by clear skies are expected to end either Thursday or Friday and will be replaced by a cold front which should return temperatures to around 30 degrees.

The normal temperatures for this time of year range from lows near 20 degrees to highs around 40 degrees, he added.

But Wise noted that the overall outlook for the next 30 days calls for temperatures to be about five degrees above normal.

Wyndham Roberts, weatherman for television station WCIA in Champaign, also said he expects warmer-than-normal winter temperatures.

"I'm expecting no particularly cold weather for the duration of winter," he said.

World leaders attend funeral for Andropov

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union buried Yuri Andropov at the Kremlin wall Tuesday in a ritual Red Square state funeral. The Communist Party's new leader, Konstantin Chernenko, delivered the eulogy and then conducted his first meetings with world leaders.

Chernenko spent 30 minutes with Vice President George Bush, who represented President Reagan at the funeral. Bush said Chernenko said there was a need for the two superpowers to "place our relationship upon a more constructive path."

Chernenko, 72, who has not had wide foreign policy experience, also met with Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain and other leaders in Moscow for the funeral.

Chernenko called Andropov "an ardent champion of peace" in a eulogy delivered from the reviewing stand atop the mausoleum of V.I. Lenin, founder of the Soviet state.

Andropov was buried among other heroes of the Soviet Union with a ringing salute of gunfire. His widow sobbed at the graveside. Factory whistles sounded throughout the Soviet Union to mark his burial.

Chernenko lead the ceremony, which included music and speeches. Andropov headed the KGB, the Soviet secret police an intelligence agency, for 15 years before becoming Communist Party leader in November 1982 after the death of Leonid Brezhnev. He later assumed the presidency, a post Brezhnev also held.

Andropov died Thursday at 69. Chernenko was named Communist Party leader, the top position in the Soviet Union, on Monday.

Dignitaries from more than 100 countries came to Moscow to pay their respects and meet the Soviet leader.

"The passing away of Yuri Vladimirovich Andropov has evoked deep sorrow in the hearts of Soviet people," Chernenko said. "A glorious son of the Communist Party, an outstanding political figure, a person of great soul and kind heart has departed from life."

Chernenko, hospitalized last spring with pneumonia, coughed several times, often wiped his nose with a handkerchief and faltered at one point during the eight-minute speech.

Speeches by Chernenko, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Defense Minister Dmitri Ustinov stressed two themes: a Soviet desire for peace and determination to maintain the armed might of the Soviet Union.

The funeral procession from the House of Unions, where Andropov's body had lain in state since Saturday, began just before 11:30 a.m. Andropov's coffin was borne by a gun carriage pulled by an olive drab armored personnel carrier and escorted by goose-stepping soldiers. They marched to the strains of Chopin's funeral march.

Andropov's family, including his widow, Tatyana, his son Igor, and daughter, Irina, friends and relatives walked behind the coffin.

As the coffin was lowered, a volley of fire rumbled in salute, factory and train whistles wailed and the band shifted to the Soviet national anthem. Mrs. Andropov sobbed.

U.S. warship fires against Druse

BEIRUT, Lebanon—Druse insurgents launched a surprise offensive Tuesday and captured a strategic mountain corridor from government troops. A U.S. warship opened fire twice — during the Druse attack and again when Lebanon's Defense Ministry came under fire, American officers said.

The Marines fought a mortar duel at daybreak when their base came under fire from the southeast — five hours after a rocket attack. No Marines were injured, U.S. spokesmen said.

Union outcry after bus murder

CHICAGO—The president of Chicago's bus driver union called Tuesday for restoration of the disbanded Chicago Transit Authority security force after a driver was fatally shot in an argument with a passenger over a fare.

Helen Richard, a 41-year-old mother of four, died in Holy Cross Hospital Monday night. A 21-year-old University of Illinois-Chicago student was arrested and charged with murder.

Police said suspect Peggy Austin, apprehended as she fled down an alley, was carrying a .38-caliber revolver.

Dioxin spill trial to last long time

BELLEVILLE, Ill.—The trial of 23 consolidated lawsuits over a railroad spill of dioxin contaminated material could last a year, an attorney says.

Rex Carr, who represents about 75 people suing over the spill, said he expects the trial to last "six months to a year."

All of the plaintiffs have complained of various injuries and illnesses they say were caused by exposure to the spilled chemical or to traces of brought home by workers on their clothes and bodies.

Mubarak: U.S. must talk to PLO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak called Tuesday for "direct dialogue" between the United States and the PLO, but the Reagan administration immediately rejected the advice.

Mubarak and Jordan's King Hussein had concluded talks with President Reagan when the Egyptian delivered his prepared statement.

"The Palestinian people are entitled to your support and understanding," Mubarak said. "There is no substitute for a direct dialogue with them through their chosen representative, the PLO." He said Palestinian Liberation Organisation chief Yasser Arafat is "a responsible leader who has demonstrated tremendous courage under the most difficult circumstances."

Mubarak, head of the only Arab country officially at peace with Israel, also told Reagan at the meeting the PLO "has opted for a political settlement and can deliver," said a senior U.S. official who declined to be identified.

Reagan said the Arab-Israeli conflict must be resolved through negotiation involving an exchange of territory for peace. He renewed his own commitment to a plan based on Palestinian self-rule — but not statehood — in association with Jordan.

Illinois economy on the downfall

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Public Action Council on Tuesday released a report it said shows a continued decline in the state's workforce and standard of living, contradicting an upbeat State of the State speech by Governor Thompson last week.

The report said that since 1980, Illinois has lost 271,000 jobs as the unemployment rate rose by 14.2 percent, wage increases have fallen 4 percent behind boosts in prices for basic consumer items despite the declining inflation rate, and corporate investment has shrunk.

In addition, IPAC said, farm foreclosures rose 60 percent last year from the 1982 level.

The IPAC report commented, "In the 1984 State of the Union message the president announced that 'America is back.' Back from the 1982 recession, the worst since World War II. Perhaps, but compared with economic activity before Mr. Reagan took office in January 1981, Illinois is not back."

"Rather than grow, the Illinois economy has shrunk ... The impact of Illinois' stagnation is far-reaching. It is reflected in lost jobs, business bankruptcies, a lower standard of living and family income falling behind the increasing cost of consumer items."

Floods hit areas around Illinois

(AP)—While residents of north central Illinois were leaving their homes to escape overflowing rivers, authorities in Southern Illinois were keeping a sharp eye on rivers that may flood later this week.

Some Kankakee residents left their homes Tuesday as townspeople in near by Wilmington spent the day cleaning up the mess caused when the Kankakee River overflowed its banks.

In southern Illinois, Alton Lock and Dam 26 lockmaster James Fogilphol said officials would be keeping a close watch on the Mississippi River for the next few days.

And state Police Sgt. Donald Hoskins said crests were expected about Friday on the Wabash and Little Wabash rivers in Southern Illinois. "But I don't think they're going to be above flood stage," he said.

Salary paper to be issued by Nancy Yamin

The Faculty Senate approved a motion Tuesday to publish a paper discussing Eastern's underfunded faculty salaries.

The report recommends that the "university administration and the University Professionals of Illinois, provide an equity increase" in faculty salaries.

Senate Chairman Richard Goodrick said the report basically calls for faculty salaries to be increased by three-fourths of a percent each year for four or five years until the salaries of Eastern's faculty "catch up" with those of other Illinois universities.

The senate discussed the report, however decided not to approve or reject it until the report could be considered further, Goodrick said.

"The report has been laid out on the table. I hope that we get some feedback," he added. The report will be published in the Faculty Senate minutes.

In other business, two representatives from student-faculty boards explained their board's functions to the senate.

John Rearden, Intercollegiate Athletic Board member, said the function of the IAB is "primarily advisory."

The IAB approves the schedules and budget for the athletic department in an advisory capacity, he said.

January retail sales rise 2 percent; car, department store sales top list

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. retailers, benefiting from milder weather, saw sales rise a robust 2.2 percent last month, the government reported Tuesday, and analysts said the better-than-expected showing should fuel further economic growth.

The January increase was the largest since a 3.1 percent rise last May and boosted total monthly sales to a record of $104.4 billion.

The key performers in the surge were auto dealers and department stores, where sales were up 5.5 percent over December on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The nation's recovery from the 1981-82 recession has been spurred in large part by consumer spending. But after a disappointing 0.1 percent rise in December retail sales, many analysts predicted consumers purchases would moderate this year.

Tuesday's report from the Commerce Department caused some reassessment, with one economist predicting real economic growth would hit 6 percent in the first three months of 1984.

Other analysts cautioned that a key reason the January increase was so high was the weak showing in December, when sales were hurt by the unusually severe winter weather.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes noted that the January increase was the fifth in a row and called it a "positive sign that indicates further improvements are in store for the economy."

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said the healthy sales reflected continued consumer confidence, but he forecast some slowdown in the increases "after last year's healthy growth."

Jerry Jasinowski, chief economist for the National Association of Manufacturers, said the January increase "points to rapid economic expansion in the first quarter." He predicted economic growth of 6 percent, compared to 4.5 percent in the final three months of 1983.

So far at least, the boom in car sales is continuing. For January, auto sales were up 1.2 percent from December. The $21.3 billion in sales was a new record for a single month.

Discussion to be held concerning OCSHA

A bylaw addition allowing the Off-Campus Student Housing Association president to serve as an ex-officio member of the Student Senate Housing Committee will be discussed by the senate Wednesday, Senate Speaker Ron Wesel said.

In other business, senator Karim Eldib will present a report concerning the acquisition of a computer for student government.

In addition, the results of the Alcohol Forum and the voter registration drive will be discussed.

Also, Larry Stoeber, state representative candidate, will speak to the senate concerning higher education.

The Student Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

Door opens for better relations after Soviet leadership change

Since Soviet Union President Yuri Andropov's death Friday, U.S. congressmen, cabinet members and President Reagan himself have proclaimed the near future as the "turning point" in Soviet-American relations.

We couldn't agree more. With Andropov's passing and Konstantin Chernenko's promotion to general secretary of the Communist Party, Reagan and the U.S. have been given an opportunity to demonstrate to Soviet officials that America is sincere in its desire to melt the frozen East-West relations.

A good start to demonstrating that desire was Vice President George Bush' meeting with Chernenko Tuesday, in which Bush said the new Soviet leader agreed "about the need to place our (Soviet Union and U.S.) relationship upon a more constructive path."

Constructive indeed. Improvements in relations are a must now because Soviet-American dealings in the past 15 months cannot be termed anything but destructive.

The Reagan-Andropov leaderships have widened the communication gap between the two world superpowers like lodestones directed at the magnetic north pole.

Soviet-U.S. nuclear arms talks in Geneva were halted, and the two nations have turned Germany into a giant, "stuck-in-the-middle" nuclear-missile silo.

Such strained relations could realistically lead to nuclear annihilation, and it's comforting to know that Reagan recognizes a need to improve relations. But, realistically, conditions will not improve overnight.

Still, good signs remain. Although Chernenko pledged Monday to continue the policy lines laid down by Andropov, he said, "It is necessary to evaluate realistically the results that have been achieved without exaggerating them and without belittling them. Only this approach prevents mistakes in politics and the temptations to engage in wishful thinking."

It will take sound, constant communication to work toward a solution. We hope Reagan and the new Soviet leader can create a solid platform now, in order to construct a sound solution for the future.

Your turn

Editorial wrongly accuses court

In response to the Feb. 7 editorial headlined, "Senate's intent muted by delay," I would like to ask the paper why the subject wasn't fully looked into, as called for by responsible investigative reporting?

If you would have checked the Student Government Constitution, you would have found under Article IV, Paragraph A, Section b, Subsection 1, that, "Each accused and accuser shall have the right to a hearing within a 120-hour period but not earlier than 48 hours after written notice (or reasonable attempt to give notice) has been given with the exception of holidays, weekends and vacation periods which may interfere. . ."

I feel this was an unjust editorial against the Supreme Court, which acted in the most responsible and constitutionally correct manner. We knew our jobs and responsibilities as stated above, we could not hear the case before 48 hours after the appeal (including weekends).

I feel that in the future as good newswriters, you may want to research your subject more thoroughly so as to get all of the facts before blaming a person or a group with irresponsibility, when, in fact, we acted correctly.

The ad for the movie "Pieces" printed in The Daily Eastern News is a disgrace to your staff. The same day it appeared, the local news carried the story of a 15-year-old who beat a 10-year-old to death with a crowbar in an area laundromat.

Can we wonder why such brutal crimes are committed in a society where the university newspaper carries material implying that it is pure entertainment to see a woman—or is it a child?—cut to pieces with a chain saw?

No amount of money should be able to buy space for such an ad. Keep this stuff out of our sight.

Corporations feed on Olympics 'American' prestige

Now that the United State's Olympic hockey team has blown their chances for a medal in the Winter Olympics, let's temporarily turn our attention to the Summer Olympics in sunny, southern California.

California is the home of skimpy bathing suits, fast cars and fast women who wear skimpy bathing suits. But, for the summer of 1984, California will be the home of the world's biggest terrorist and pick-pocket convention—and, of course, the Olympic Games.

Unless you've been hibernating for the last six months, you can't help but notice how the big corporations are trying to seem more American around this time. How, you might ask, are they suddenly becoming more American? Because they're becoming the official "bla-bla-blas" for the 1984 Summer Olympic Games.

Everywhere you look, everyone has declared themselves the official some-of-a-what of the Summer Olympics.

Canon is the official camera, Kelloggs Fruit Loops is the official breakfast cereal and American Express is the official plastic money. Snickers candy and Wonder Bread are both coughing up munchies for our athletes.

Looking through the lens

Levi's is giving them jeans, McDonalds is feeding them. And Coke and M⁹ M's are offering tooth-rotting material. Buick and Chevy are fighting to be called the official car.

Even the newspaper business is getting in on things—USA Today has declared itself the official newspaper for the games.

David Letterman even nominated himself as the official talk show host of the Summer Olympic Games.

Now if David Letterman can do it, so can I.

I am officially declaring myself the "Official College Columnist" for the 1984 Summer Olympic Games.

Really, the games need a goodwill ambassador and someone to receive candy, clothes, a few Big Mac's and a car or two. I know it's going to be a tough job, but hey, someone has got to do it.

Come June, when the games are in full swing The Daily Eastern News should fly me out to California. Then every Tuesday, I'll phone in my column on my portable space phone in my '84 Buick or Chevy.

My justification for going is that most of the announcers covering the event for the press are not the same age as the athletes. Most athletes are not 33, 40, or 57 years old—they are teenagers and folks in their early 20s. Who can relate the 20-year-old athlete's thrill of victory and agony of defeat better than a 20-year-old college kid?

Being on television as an official this or that for the Olympic Games is a dream a lot of college columnists might have.

So, four years down the line, I'll let someone else take over my reign as "Official College Columnist." By then the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat will have worn off and I'll just retire to some Caribbean island—all the time getting full use of all the freebies these great American corporations have allotted our "amateur" athletes.

Knights of Columbus Council starts Eastern club

by Dawn Stultz

Efforts are underway to start a Knights of Columbus Council at Eastern.

Bob Schoeberle, Eastern graduate and an associate member of the Knights of Columbus, said he is working with Eastern's Newman Center to recruit men who are motivated and willing to put effort into getting the chapter on its feet.

"The main purpose (of organizing a chapter) is to form a social and philanthropic organization for Catholic men on Eastern's campus," he said.

Schoeberle noted that K of C activities include raising money for charities such as the American Heart Foundation. In addition, community service projects such as shoveling snow or raking leaves have been suggested as possible activities.

The Rev. Dean Probst, assistant director of Eastern's Newman Center, said, "The Knights Council is for men of the same faith to be able to give support in terms of their own faith."

Schoeberle noted that Eastern is "the only four-year teaching institution in Illinois without a Knights of Columbus Council or its sister organization, the Catholic Daughters of America."

To gain a charter from the state council, "the starting organization must first draw up a written constitution, have at least 35 participating members and hold an election of officers," he said.

After several recruiting sessions at the Newman Center and Sunday masses, 25-30 men have expressed interest in the organization, he added.

Students or alumni interested in joining the chapter must practice the Catholic faith and be at least 18 years old.

Governor to call for more education funding

CHICAGO (AP)—Governor Thompson said Tuesday he will ask the Legislature to increase spending on colleges and universities next year by $57.5 million.

The Republican governor said the increase, which amounts to about 5 percent over current spending, includes a $47.5 million rise in support for basic operations and $10 million in special funds to aid economic and technology development through engineering programs. Thompson said at a news conference that the budget proposal will permit modest increases in state scholarship awards and faculty salaries.

He also suggested that tuition boosts endorsed by the state's Board of Higher Education should be re-examined and, perhaps, reduced in light of his proposal.

Education officials attending the news conference — including Richard Wagner, executive director of the higher education panel — said they were generally pleased by the governor's proposal despite it falling short of what they would like.

The higher education board had recommended a level of spending from the state's general treasury that was $78 million above Thompson's proposal. About $36.5 million of that increase would have gone to basic educational programs with the $41.5 million difference earmarked for retirement funds.

The Thompson plan calls for total higher education spending out of the general treasury of $1.114 billion. If all higher education money, including federal aid and other funds are considered, total spending for next year would reach $1.363 billion.

Thompson is scheduled to submit his entire proposed state budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to lawmakers next month. He has not yet said what he will recommend for elementary and high schools. However, Thompson has said there will be modest increases in most areas of state spending under his suggested budget.

The governor said his planned increase in higher education spending would permit the state Scholarship Commission to raise maximum annual tuition aid awards from $2,200 to $2,400. The boost also would make possible average salary increases for faculty of 5 percent.

The Board of Higher Education had recommended tuition increases of 6.5 percent, costing most university students another $60 to $80 a year.

Thompson urged higher education officials to reconsider the tuition increases in light of his budget proposal and possibly cancel or cut the boosts.

He also said his plan includes spending $10 million on improving engineering education by upgrading equipment, retaining key faculty members and increasing enrollment in engineering programs. That portion of the plan is designed to help develop high technology industry in the state.

U.S. audit: El Salvador's land reform future 'bleak'

WASHINGTON (AP)—While Reagan administration officials were telling Congress a largely upbeat report on El Salvador's land reform last month, government auditors privately were warning that the future of the program—a cornerstone of U.S. policy there—is bleak.

The internal U.S. audit, dated Jan. 11, claimed that despite some successes, most farm cooperatives created under the first phase of the land reform program "are not financially viable."

The audit said many of the cooperatives "had massive capital debt, no working capital, large tracts of land that were non-productive, substantially larger labor forces than needed to operate the units, and weak management."

"The future of Phase I cooperatives seems bleak without further substantial reforms. Most... are not producing sufficient income to be viable organizations."

The audit, prepared by the Inspector General's office at the U.S. agency for International Development, also cited serious problems in the so-called "land-to-the-tiller" program, under which land was given to peasants who had previously rented fields from large landowners.

While noting that more than 63,000 applications had been filed for small plots of land under the "Phase III" program and that most requests were granted, the audit said about one-third of the applicants were not farming the land.

"They were not farming the land because they had been threatened, evicted or had disappeared" the audit said. A copy of the audit was obtained by The Associated Press.

The audit's findings generally support complaints from critics of the U.S.-backed land reform program and conflict with the official administration assessment that the program is a bright spot in U.S. efforts to undercut sympathy for leftist guerillas fighting the rightist Salvadoran government.

On Jan. 26, eight days after the audit report, Langhorne A. Motley, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, told Congress that the agrarian reform "is one of the major stories of the past four years" and declared that "the best available data indicates that at least 85 percent and probably more than 90 percent of the applicants are working toward their land without interference."

Motley did cite some problems with the programs, including violent evictions of some peasants by former landowners, but added that the "Salvadoran government is fully aware of these problems and is seeking to resolve them."

ROTC taking summer applicants

by Renee Fleming and Jean Bednarz

Eastern's ROTC department is currently accepting applications for a basic leadership and personnel management training camp for the summer term, Capt. Jess Cox said.

Students are paid more than $600 for attending the camp and upon graduation they will be commissioned as army officers, he said.

Cox noted that students who are not interested in making a commitment to ROTC are not obligated to do so.

"Students learn to manage 40 people at one time in a stressful environment. We put the students in a leadership position and say, 'you are responsible for this.' They have to accept total responsibility for both success and failure," he said.

The camps, which will be conducted in Fort Knox, Ky, are scheduled from May 13 to June 21 and July 8 to Aug. 8. Cox added that every seven days a new camp cycle begins.

Students who will be attending the camp must be of sophomore standing, and those interested may contact Cox at 581-5944.

Foreign policy lecture planned

Mihai Timoste, an instructor from Romania, will lecture Thursday about foreign policy concerning east-west relations.

History instructor Wolfgang Schlauch said Timoste will present a lecture titled "Romania's Foreign Policy in a Changing Contemporary World."

The history and political science departments are co-sponsoring the lecture.

The lecture is slated for 7 p.m. Thursday in the Coleman Lecture Hall.

Informal dance program slated

Victoria Varel Hutchinson, an Eastern modern dance instructor who has just returned from a six-month visit to India, will present an informal dance program based on research she conducted in India.

Hutchinson said she will demonstrate the rhythmic techniques of the classical dance titled the kathak. She explained that this dance is a highly rhythmic and stylistic dance form which combines whirlwind turns, facial expressions and graceful hand gestures.

Hutchinson said kathak has real depth. "It has layers and layers of rhythm working together each weaving an intricate pattern of its own," she said.

The dance is slated for 7 p.m. Wednesday in McAfee Gym.

Inspector finds contaminated table pedestals

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Two weeks after the first radioactive table bases were found in Illinois, nuclear safety inspectors combing the state for more are still getting calls from concerned restaurant and warehouse owners, officials said Tuesday.

About 16 more sites in the Chicago area and central Illinois were added to inspectors' lists Tuesday, said Maury Neuweg, state Nuclear Safety Department spokesman.

"The list keeps changing as people call in asking for inspections. We'll keep checking as long as they're calling," he said.

Neuweg said no radioactive table parts were found during Tuesday's inspections.

Neuweg said inspectors will check suspected table bases at an apartment building in a small Southern Illinois town on Wednesday. He declined to identify the town.

Three sites in the Chicago area also were scheduled for inspection, he said.

The search began after a shipment of table pedestals bound for a suburban Chicago restaurant were found to be emitting radiation.

The contaminated table legs were traced to a Mexican foundry where officials believe the radioactive isotope Cobalt 60 from a stolen medical therapy device tainted tons of scrap metal.

In mid-December, a St. Louis commercial furniture distributor, Falcon Products Co., unknowingly assembled tables using the contaminated metal parts and then shipped the tables throughout the country.

Students felled by fumes

CHICAGO (AP)—Two dozen students at a public high school were overcome Tuesday morning by fumes from pesticides sprayed in a lunchroom, gymnasium and swimming pool, officials said.

The Hubbard High School students, complaining of nausea, dizziness and headaches, were taken to Holy Cross hospital for treatment, but all were released by late afternoon, said hospital spokeswoman Yvonne Brooks.

Eight cheerleaders were the first overcome, school officials said. Several of the girls fainted while practicing routines before 8 a.m. in a hall near the swimming pool.

"I was the first one," said Hazel Alonzo, a 14-year old freshman at the South Side School. "All of a sudden things started getting black. I felt like I was sleeping, and when I opened my eyes I was on the floor."

Shortly after 8 a.m., members of a swimming class became ill in the pool.

"I was in the pool and it smelled really bad. But we thought it was chlorine," said Karyn Topp, 16.

Fire Lt. John Talley, a school inspector, said police medical officer Larry Makaitis said they both recommended closing the school, but school officials decided against such a move.

"I can't order them to evacuate, but they've got to accept responsibility if they keep the kids in there," Talley said.

Principal Roland J. Long said the school is sprayed about once a month to kill roaches and other insects. He said the school was sprayed Monday, when students were off in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday.

The pesticide used was the school system's standard pesticide. School and city Health Department officials said the students' nausea was not caused by Baygon, the active ingredient, but by a heavy concentration of petroleum distillate in which the poison is dissolved.

Sherwin Rubenstein, the health department regulations director, said the distillate's "strong odor...appears to be the cause of the illness."

He and Fred W. Banks, Chicago Board of Education facilities director, said the pesticide was properly applied, but that the school hadn't been ventilated when the cheerleaders arrived for their early practice.

"STUDENTS PROGRAMMING FOR STUDENTS"

"Trading Places"

Distributed by Films Incorporated
Released by Paramount Pictures Corporation
Produced by Aaron Russo
Directed by John Landis
Starring: Dan Aykroyd, Eddie Murphy, Ralph Bellamy, Don Ameche, Jamie Lee Curtis
Color Rated R

by Jay Hagberg

Wouldn't you love to go from rags to riches, from a bum to a billionaire? That's just what Eddie Murphy does when he switches from a street-wise hustler to a Wall Street market wiz with Dan Aykroyd.

Trading Places, dubbed the funniest movie of the year by Vincent Canby, New York Times critic will be shown on February 7th at 6:30, 9:00 and 11:30 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

"In addition to being the Funniest American movie comedy of the year, John Landis' Trading Places has several other things going for it. It established Eddie Murphy as the brightest young comic actor to hit Hollywood in a decade. The screenplay brings up to date a kind of social awareness that was so important to comedies of the 30's and 40's. And it demonstrates that Mr. Landis is capable of directing a comedy of precise style. The Film's pleasures are unequivocal, beginning with the lithe, graceful, uproarious performance of Mr. Murphy. As the woefully naive Louis Winthorpe III, Mr. Aykroyd gives the best performance in his film career."

Vincent Canby, New York Times

"Trading Places is a slapstick farce about servility and money worship. Eddie Murphy's Talent for mimicry combined with his disbelieving smile make him the most sympathetic of con artists. The audience has taken this slick charmer to heart; he can get away with anything, and he knows it."

David Denby, New York

"For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide"

by Bradley T. Gibson and Chris Jacobs

The hit Shange's Broadway play "FOR COLORED GIRLS WHO HAVE CONSIDERED SUICIDE/WHEN THE RAINBOW IS ENUF," will be presented by University Board on Sunday, February 19 at 2:00 p.m. Admission is $2.50 for students and $5.50 for general public.

FOR COLORED GIRLS is a celebration of being black and being woman. In a series of dramatic scenes, many danced and sung, but most spoken with simple directness and fierce passion. FOR COLORED GIRLS spotlights seven "sisters", their tasks, trials, and loving moments.

The play moves through many settings, geographic and emotional. It presents a series of portraits—a school girl's swing through her high-time graduation night; an adolescent's search for a black saint by the St. Louis riverfront; and the hypnotic transformation of a carnival dancer into an ancient Egyptian goddess.

Later, in the "city" section of the play, a bitter young woman navigates the mean streets of Harlem, while, in another set an angry poet severs herself from an indifferent lover. Finally, in a scene of shattering horror, a ghetto mother relives the careless murder of her two small children. This is the evening's climax. For it is here that each woman reaches out to the others—for friendship, comfort, and support—and to give thanks for survival.

FOR COLORED GIRLS is filled with music—jazz, soul, salsa. The piece also speaks of simple things, of jealousy and friendship, of childhood dreams, and the exhilarating release in dancing. But it always returns to its ultimate theme: the black woman's capacity to master pain and betrayals with courage, wit, and reckless daring. As critic Douglass Watt of The New York Daily News wrote, For Colored Girls is "affirmative, joyous, and alive...and overwhelming evening of theatre."

Written by the poet Ntozake Shange, who graduated from Barnard College receiving her B.A. and went on to the University of Southern California to complete study for her Master's Degree.

Encouraged by the strength of the women's movement in the California Bay Area, Shange premiered FOR COLORED GIRLS. The play became an instant hit and Shange decided to bring it east to New York. Joseph Papp, the famed producer of A CHORUS LINE transferred the play to his Public Theatre, giving it its first fully professional mounting.

Private lives of Soviet leaders kept discreet

MOSCOW (AP)—The lives of Soviet leaders are so private that few outside the ruling circle know if the new Communist Party chief Konstantin Chernenko is married or has children.

Westerners and most Soviets didn't know that Yuri Andropov's wife was alive until she appeared in public to mourn his death.

There is no "first family" concept in the Soviet Union, and the private lives of the elite are carefully hidden from the public. They are sped to work along special traffic lanes in curtained limousines, shop in special stores and rest in secluded country dachas.

There is no campaigning for office in the Soviet Union, wives don't stand alongside husbands at ceremonial occasions and official biographies seldom contain the kind of personal details that are taken for granted in the United States or other Western countries.

Nor is there a tradition of political dynasties — sons and daughters of famous fathers have never risen to top leadership positions.

Chernenko's biography, published by the official news agency Tass and printed in Tuesday's newspapers, chronicles his slow rise through the party hierarchy. But the only personal detail provided is that his parents were Siberian peasants.

Andropov's official biography was the same. There were rumors his wife, Tatyana, was dead or they had been divorced. But she appeared at the House of Unions when Andropov's body lay in state.

One exception was Nina Khrushchev, wife of Nikita Khrushchev, who joined him on a U.S. tour in 1959. Leonid Brezhnev's wife, Viktoria, appeared in public in Moscow in 1972 when President Richard Nixon visited with his wife, Pat. Mrs. Brezhnev was so little known to ordinary Russians that many asked Western reporters who she was.

Sometimes details become known if a relative hold a government position or if a scandal leaks out. Thus, when Andropov came to power in November 1982, it was known he had a son, Igor, because the younger Andropov was in the Soviet delegation to the Madrid conference on European security.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's son, Anatoly, also is an experienced diplomat who was posted to Soviet embassies in Washington and London before heading the Soviet Union's Africa Institute.

Some believe Andropov helped to engineer his rise by revealing a scandal in the family life of his predecessor, Brezhnev. In late February 1982, Soviet sources leaked reports that a top circus official friendly with Galina Brezhnev, the leader's daughter, had been arrested in a bribery scandal.

A circus performer known as Boris the Gypsy, also said to be a friend of Galina Brezhnev's, also was arrested and a valuable art collection confiscated from his apartment, the Soviet source said.

Westerners theorized the information, which would normally have been secret, was deliberately leaked to discredit Brezhnev and promote Andropov, who as chief of the KGB would have known about the arrests.

The most sensational news about a Soviet leader's relative was the defection in 1967 of Josef Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Aliluyeva.

Under new president, censorship in Argentina ends

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentines only now are learning in gruesome detail about the deadly repression they lived with in the late 1970s, a dark time whose brutalities were shielded by censorship and by people's unwillingness to believe.

In seven years of military government that ended in December, Argentine television aired nothing critical of the ruling generals. But today the late-night news often resembles a horror movie, with graveside scenes of bones exhumed from secret burial grounds, tragic testimony to the military's systematic extermination of its real or imagined enemies.

There are 10,000 documented cases of Argentines who vanished after being arrested in the years following the 1976 military takeover, says author Ernesto Sabato, who heads a commission named by Argentina's new, democratically elected president, Raul Alfonsin, to investigate the fate of the "desaparecidos"—the disappeared one.

Sabato says there may be up to 20,000 additional undocumented cases. For years, such human rights activists as Adolfo Perez Esquivel, winner of the 1980 Nobel Prize, sought to impress on the Argentine public the scale of the repression going on around them.

The military rulers denounced these accounts of torture and executions as part of an "international communist campaign" to smear Argentina. The news media—either docile, intimidated or willingly cooperative—disseminated this official version. The public doubted the stories the dissidents told.

Today, as President Alfonsin tries to shed light on 1970s repression, Argentine journalists seek out Esquivel and others who can attest to the excesses. Esquivel, for one, was jailed for 14 months without charge in 1977-78 and was beaten by his interrogators.

The generals took power in March 1976, ousting President Isabel Peron, widow of former President Juan Peron, for alleged corruption. They then launched a crackdown against two leftist guerrilla groups, the Montoneros and People's Revolutionary Army. But armed militants were not the only ones swept up in the dragnet. Thousands of alleged leftist sympathizers—union activists, leftist party members, intellectuals—also were seized and disappeared.

The military gave way to civilian rule in elections last October, and Argentines chose Alfonsin as their president. Leader of the Social Democratic Radical Party, he also helped found the Argentine Permanent Assembly for Human Rights in 1975.

After his inauguration Dec. 10, he declared, "The establishment of estate law demands that those who in the recent past have sown terror, pain and death throughout Argentine society be judged."

The new president ordered that nine retired generals and admirals, who had formed three of Argentina's recent junta's, be tried by court martial on charges of human rights abuse.

2. Three clues, as to the identity of the famous traveler, will be printed in the classified ads section Tuesday and Wednesday.

3. Contestants must find the clues, figure out who the famous traveler is, and fill out the provided contest form completely. (The contest form will also be printed in the classified ads section.)

4. The completed contest form must be brought to the news room office, Buzzard Ed. Bld., between 8:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon on the day the clues are published.

Will Big Ten Frontrunners stay on top?

CHICAGO (AP)—This week could be the breaking point for the three teams fighting it out for the Big Ten title, Purdue Coach Gene Keady said Tuesday.

Keady's Boilermakers, their 10-2 record tying them atop the league standings with Illinois, and third-place Indiana hit the road for a pair of crucial confrontations. And Keady anticipates some changes in the standings by the end of the weekend.

"I just doubt that all three teams can win both their games," he said during the weekly teleconference. The 11th-ranked Boilermakers, 17-4 overall, visit Michigan State on Thursday and Michigan on Saturday.

No. 7 Illinois, 19-2 overall, plays Michigan on Thursday and Michigan State on Sunday. Indiana, ranked 11th, puts its 9-2 and 16-5 records on the line at Iowa on Thursday and Northwestern on Saturday.

Michigan coach Bill Frieder says he isn't too excited about entertaining the two frontrunners, especially when the Wolverines, 5-5 and 13-7, have to travel to Indiana afterwards.

"It took us two weeks to recover from the last time we played them," Frieder said, recalling a four-point defeat at Purdue and a four-overtime disappointment at Illinois.

Keady says he's wary of both teams this week. Michigan State, 2-8 and 9-11, apparently has overcome a string of injuries that marred its season, and the Purdue coach expects the Spartans to put it all together down the stretch as they did last year.

He categorized Michigan's talent, probably No. 1 in the Big Ten...and they're getting experience."

To be successful, he added, "we better play the best defense we've played all year."

Leonard awaits doctor's signal

BOSTON (AP)—The doctor who operated on Sugar Ray Leonard's right eye said Tuesday it will be two more weeks before the boxer can start training again for his postponed comeback match. But Dr. Edward Ryan also said he doesn't think Leonard should fight at all.

"I wouldn't recommend that he fight, but if the eye heals up properly I could not prevent him from fighting," said Ryan, a retinal specialist at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary. Ryan operated on the former welterweight champion Monday, after a checkup showed the retina in his right eye was becoming loose.

"Sugar Ray tolerated the procedure very well," said Ryan, who had never examined the boxer before. "His eye will be a little sore."

Ryan said Leonard's left eye, operated on in 1982, is fine but without surgery in his right eye, the boxer could not have fought safely against Kevin Howard Feb. 25. The match has been postponed and no new date has been announced.

Leonard was resting in the Washington area, and the secretary of Mike Trainer, his lawyer, said there would be no statement until the end of the week.

The 27-year-old fighter had surgery on his left eye in May 9, 1982, to repair a partly detached retina.

the short program's required jumps, but was off on a camel spin and didn't have his usual spark.

"The camel wasn't what I quite wanted it to be," said the three-time world champion, who came close to banging into the corner walls on one trip around the rink.

His coach, Don Laws, said Hamilton would have to finish fifth or lower in the free skate Thursday night to lose the gold medal.

question of the soccer program surviving, because it will. Rather, it's a question of the program flourishing like it has in recent years."

Many Panthers said Hyndman, national soccer coach of the year in 1981, possessed coaching qualities which will be hard to replace.

Lansing said, "One of Schellas' major attributes is that he's such a good recruiter and that's a rare quality in a coach."

Consequently, Swindells said it will be hard for the Panthers to remain nationally prominent without Hyndman.

"When you lose the best coach in the nation, things can only go downhill," Swindells said.

Callipari agreed that Hyndman was the main reason for Eastern's success on NCAA Division I and II levels.

"Our future as a soccer team looks bleak without him," Callipari said. "He's done so much for the team."

Soccer players support Hyndman's choice

by Mike Lynch

Several Eastern soccer players Tuesday expressed dismay about head coach Schellas Hyndman's decision to assume the head coaching duties at Southern Methodist University.

While some players said Eastern's program would suffer next season and in the future, they generally supported Hyndman's decision to leave.

"It's really sad to see him go, but I think from his standpoint he's making a good decision," freshman defenseman Kevin Kyle said.

Freshman midfielder Matt Gamache added, "Personally, I don't like it but for him I think it's what he should do. I really don't think he was getting a fair shake here."

Gamache's sentiments were echoed by several Panther players who said Eastern's athletic department did not make a sufficient attempt to keep the seven-year coach.

Sophomore midfielder Rick Lansing said, "The fact that they let such a quality coach like Schellas go without much fanfare shows the disregard they have for our program."

Sophomore forward Neil Swindells added, "I think it's a shame that the athletic department doesn't realize the talent they're letting go."

Meanwhile, freshman defenseman Greg Mellor said he was disappointed about the coach's decision although he believes the time is right for Hyndman to leave Eastern.

"I don't think Eastern gave him a big option to stay," he said. "For a third-ranked team they didn't show much support."

Panther co-captain junior Guy Callipari said Hyndman's departure Saturday signals a period of adjustment for the Panthers.

"It's really hard to handle. It's just a shame we have to settle for second best now," the three-year letterman said.

Most of the players agree that Hyndman, who had a career record at Eastern of 94-24-11, will be missed and the program could suffer in upcoming years.

Kyle said, "The big impact won't occur right at first, but I think unless they find a quality coach, the program will decline in the future."

Lansing added, "It's not a question of the soccer program surviving, because it will. Rather, it's a Eastern wrestlers host final dual...

by David Gronowski

Eastern's wrestling team will conclude its dual season when it hosts the University of Illinois at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The match marks the return of former Eastern head wrestling coach Ron Clinton who now is head coach for the Illini.

"This is a big match," Eastern head coach Ralph McCausland said. "It should be very competitive and a lot of emotion from both sides will be evident."

"We're going to be getting down to some serious wrestling," he added. "Even though the ties are there, we'll still be looking for the win."

McCausland, a former NCAA

Division II champion for Eastern, wrestled under Clinton for four years.

McCausland said the Panther's two-week layoff was beneficial to his squad which has suffered from injuries throughout the season.

The Panthers' last meet was Feb. 2 when they downed Illinois State University, 24-17.

"I don't think the layoff will hurt us any," McCausland said. "If anything, it helped us overcome some minor injuries, and the guys could get in some good workouts without worrying about cutting weight."

Against the Illini, McCausland said, the featured match of the evening will be in the 142-pound division.

"There will be some real good matchups up and down the lineup because Clinton does have a good lineup," McCausland said. "But 142 could be an outstanding bout with Bernie Ruettiger against Illinois' Mike Yates."

This will be the final competition for the Panthers before the regional tournament which is held Feb. 24 and 25.

"This could really help our momentum," McCausland said. "Going into the regionals with a win here would really be a lift for us. We're looking forward to a close bout but we're a hungry team after the layoff and I expect a good performance."

...Clinton returns as coach of Illini

by David Gronowski

It will be a homecoming of sorts Wednesday night when former Eastern head wrestling coach Ron Clinton returns to Lantz Gym with wrestlers from the University of Illinois.

Clinton, who spent nine seasons as the Panthers' head mentor, is currently in his first year with Illinois after taking the position last spring.

"I'm really looking forward to it," Clinton said. "It'll feel all right, like I'm coaching two teams."

The former coach's squad will bring a 3-7 dual meet record into the match, while the Panthers enter with a 4-3-1 mark.

"We've made a lot of progress," Clinton said. "In the last two weeks we've beaten Northern Illinois and lost to Wisconsin, but they're ranked fifth in the country."

"I'm just putting things in perspective," he continued. "It's a rebuilding year, and we're just going to build slowly. In two or three years, we'll get our goals accomplished."

Clinton said he is looking forward to returning to Eastern Wednesday and is anticipating a close match with the Panthers.

"There will be a lot of enthusiasm and some good competition," he said. "I believe it will be fairly close; 'I'm looking forward to grappling with the Panthers.'"

"The key matches should be at 126 pounds, 142, 150 and 167," Clinton added.

U.S.'s Hamilton still seeking gold medal in Winter Olympics

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP)—U.S. figure skater Scott Hamilton added a second place in short forms Tuesday to his earlier top scores, putting him in prime contention for a Winter Olympic's gold medal.

Canadian Brian Orser bested him by a narrow margin in the short forms, but Hamilton still held on to first place overall.

Hamilton's next step is the freestyle competition, which accounts for 50 percent of the final score. The freestyle is said to be his strongest portion of the exercises.

Hours after Hamilton left the ice in his short program, the rink belonged to the ice dancing event, where Britain's Jayne Torvill and Christopher Dean headed for the gold after reaping perfection in their preliminaries.

After the short program, which accounts for 20 percent of the final marks in the medal competition, Hamilton led Jean-Christophe Simond of France, followed by West German Rudi Cerne.

Hamilton finished second in the short program after leading in the compulsory round. Orser moved into fifth place overall after his short program.

Brian Boitano, 19, of Sunnyvale, Calif., finished third in the short program and moved to sixth overall. The other U.S. entry, Mark Cockerell of Los Angeles, was 17th.

Hamilton, 25, skated cautiously in completing
